Thank you for your interest in sharing CareerVillage.org with your local schools, educators, and community-based organizations! This one-pager holds the information you need to introduce people to CareerVillage and help global youth get the personalized career advice they need to reach their dream jobs.

About CareerVillage.org:

Millions of students lack access to the world of work and answers about their futures and career paths. It is CareerVillage.org's mission to democratize access to career advice for underserved youth and the way it does that is through a free online platform that crowdsources personalized college and career advice for students through online Q&A. To date, we have served over 4.2 million young people searching for career information in the United States and all around the world.

On CareerVillage.org, students receive college and career advice from real working professionals in an easy and flexible way that connects them to the world of work. Students simply post a question about their futures onto CareerVillage.org, and our website automatically matches it to our industry relevant professionals -- 45,000+ volunteers from hundreds of companies like Google, ESPN, Verizon, IBM PwC, and AT&T, just to name a few.

All content all the site is public, searchable, and moderated by CareerVillage's team of Moderators. CareerVillage's Q&A platform is convenient and easy to use and is a 100% free resource for both educators and students.

Onboarding:

There are three distinct user profiles on CareerVillage.org: Students, Professionals, and Educators. Students are able to ask career-related questions and Professionals can provide career advice. Educators are unique in that they are able to provide advice and also access to a unique dashboard that allows them to add their classrooms onto CareerVillage and assign activities within the platform and log their progress.

How to get started:

Students:

Get help preparing for your future every day from real working professionals.

1. Sign up as a Student at www.careervillage.org/signup/
2. Read advice, ask questions (we recommend 2 to start), and create your first Career ToDo List
3. Post a short "thank you" comment when you get answers to your questions
4. Share with your classmates, friends, and networks to help others take control of their futures

Volunteers:

Give career advice to students online.

1. Sign up as a Professional at www.careervillage.org/signup/
2. Answer a question
3. Invite your network to join CareerVillage.org and join your local schools as a "supporter." Share the signup link and refer questions to your friends

Educators and nonprofits:

Equip your students to get their questions answered. Engage your alumni, staff, and supporters in answering the students' questions.

1. Sign up as an Educator: https://www.careervillage.org/educator/
2. Watch this short (6 min.) training video on how to optimize your use of the Educator dashboard: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=m2Lo4Vop5Ew&t=131s
3. Download free lesson plans and worksheets: https://resources.careervillage.org/
4. Invite students to post questions in class, in advisory periods, and after-school, year-round.
5. Join your school's page from www.careervillage.org/settings/schools/
6. Invite your alumni, parents, supporters, industry/corporate partners, and community-based partners to join your school's page as well
