PRUEM MONASTERY WELCOMES EMPEROR

The abbot in the Benedictine monastery in the western Eifel town of Pruem was ready to retire for the evening when there was a knock on the door. The door was opened to greet the late September haze and two figures standing before him.

The elderly man in a cloak begged asylum, pleading "Do not turn me away, but let me find here the peace which I have so far sought in vain. My soul is laden with heavy sins. All those who have suffered under my rule accuse me.

"I have therefore laid down the burden of my crown so that I may do penance for my evil deeds and ease my conscience. In all humility I beg you to accept me into the peace of your monastery."

The surprised abbot recognized the humble man, and cried out "The Emperor!" and made him welcome. The armed knight who had accompanied him soon left. The visitor gave the abbot gifts of costly plate and holy relics.

King Lothair was soon garbed in the simple habit of Saint Benedict. In his later years, Lothair had warred with his father, Louis the Pious and his brothers.

The Man of Stone
On the cathedral of Verden,
What may he have done?
The church's money he stole.
That's why the devil shall fetch him.
But this kind of scoundrel in the hell
Was even for the devil too much,
He made the shameful rascal to stone.
And now he sits in the wall.

Pruem, 50-Pfennig, Dec. 6, 1920
P-S 2095

Charlemagne had ruled as Holy Roman Emperor from the year 800 to 814, succeeded by his son Louis I the Pious, who had three sons. Lothair I ruled from 840 to 855, when he died at age 60 on September 29, six days after entering the monastery in Pruem. Lothair I was considered the first German emperor.

Today, Pruem lies within two miles of the French border.

Several views of the abbey appear on Notgeld issues of Pruem, including circulating notes of 25- and 50-Pfennig, dated Dec. 6, 1920, Pick-Siemsen 2095, and two dated issues of the Gewerbeverein Pruem e. V. of May 1, 1921 and June 23, 1921, each with issues of 10-, 25- and 50-Pfennig, Lindman 1049.
