The Fraktur

VOL. VI, NR. 6

June 1993

KOELN

For the collector of one piece of Notgeld from each town, or even one representative piece of each denomination or each date, it may not be of interest that there are several large series of notes which go on ad infinitum.

Included in the latter group are Gransee, L-451, Hamburg, L-522, Heisterbach, L-575, Insterburg, L-627, Koenigswinter, L-709, and Koeln, Pick-Siemsen, "Das Deutsche Notgeld Kleingeld-scheine 1916-1922, Verkehrsausgaben," number 1114.

In the May 1993 issue of The Fraktur we cited notes of Witten. From the same source, "Der Bund," April and May 1925 we cite figures from Hans Weyland, Koeln, for 10-Pfennig notes issued in 43 series, with a total face value of 4,307,500 Mark.

Issue dates of the series range from March 29, 1917, to July 13, 1921. In between are a variety of printers, paper colors, some signed by Konrad Adenauer, some spelling the name of the town "Coeln," "Koeln," and even "Koellen eyn Kroin."

The early Latin name of the town was Oppidum Ubiorum. After the birth of Nero's mother, Agrippina, in the town, the name was changed to Colonia Agrippina. So the "Coeln" form of the name most closely resembles the name of the Roman colony.

MONTHLY NOTGELD QUOTE . . .

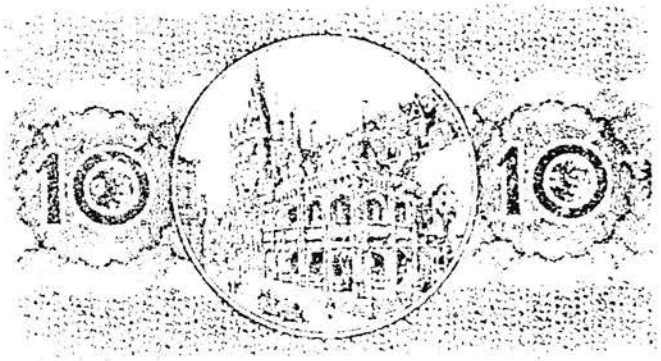

Scherenschnitt von Marie Alde

Risky is it to wake up a lion,
To catch a tiger is an art.
But to pull a stag on his tail
Nobody dares during the rutting season.

The first issue of the notes dated March 29, 1917, measured 100 by 55 millimeters. Subsequent issues measured 87 by 47 mm. We will offer some road signs to help interpret the tables. "1 Ausg." indicates "First issue." The date follows, then mention of size, paper and spelling of the town.

In some cases the text in the middle of the face of the note says the piece has value until one month after a notice in the "Lokalkblaetter" (local newspaper) or "Ortsblaetter" (town newspaper).

There is also a key to the serial number. For instance, the June 1, 1918, note illustrated has a F14 prefix. By looking at the table, under that date, Adenauer signature, line 36, is the notation "15 x F 500-600 T, 1 1/2 Mo St."

The serial number of the illustrated note is 574,621, within the range of the 500-600, and the total number produced was 1.5 Million pieces.

Throughout the period of issue of the 10-Pfennig notes were 25- and 50-Pfennig notes, with similar but not parallel issues.

A reader has requested help for storing paper Notgeld.

Perhaps the same rules for storing world paper money would apply, which would include storing away from light, particularly sunlight, avoiding plastic holders which run with green oil after a while and following a system.

A beginning might be to look at the system followed by German collectors, as Notgeld became a collecting fad. Albums, similar to our photo albums, were advertised. Some merely had pages to which one could affix the Notgeld, with a good glue or photo corners.

Did you ever see a note with those rusty-looking diagonals across the corners? The photo corners do a great job of leaving a reminder of their service.

More sophisticated pages had narrow rows of paper running across the page, so the note could sit inside without being held by glue or photo corners.

In the 1960s clear plastic pages became available. In the spring of 1975 I visited Carl Siemsen at his home in Denmark. His notes were in countless albums, each within a clear plastic sheet, displayed without overlapping, each in pristine condition. One could only drop their jaw in awe at just the album and pages.

After Mr. Siemsen died, we understand the collection was sold in large lots. We know of several collections of tokens and other numismatic items, the work of a lifetime, sold in a few lots, with the average collector missing the chance to purchase items which he might use. It is just too much trouble to do a decent listing.

The Notgeld collector must come to grips with the cost of a note versus the cost of the page in which to display it. Perhaps you purchase the notes for $2 and the page cost $1 or $1.50 or $2. How many notes do you display on the page? One page for each town in the collection?

How much information do you add to the page with the notes? A catalog number, cost of the notes, day purchased, from whom? as one may do with coins.

Other information might be the theme, designer's name, name of printer, even number printed if that information is available.

Glassine envelopes could provide a solution for a collection without albums. A problem of size of the note enters here. While an album page might accomodate a note of any size, one may need a variety of sizes of envelopes.

The order in which the album pages or envelopes would be kept would be useful for locating a particular issue. Perhaps the first factor would be keeping one country together.

Germans might collect by province, so all of the Bavarian notes would be together, separate from Baden or Prussia.

As a collection grows, the need for reevaluating the system would develop, and the collector may go from envelopes to album pages.

The collection kept in the local bank's safe deposit vault may offer less satisfaction, but more protection for a collection.

We would like reader input on how individual collections are maintained.

Dwight L. Musser, Box 905, Lacoochee, Fla. 33637, has prepared a listing of Reutergeld notes, issued by 70 Mecklenburg towns. He has cross-indexed them with cataloguers Keller, Pick-Siemsen and Lindman. He offers complimentary lists to readers who send a stamped, self-addressed long envelope.
