How to Navigate an Event

Whether it is a fundraiser, professional gathering, client dinner, or even your cousin's wedding, attending events is a part of your life – both professional and personal. Extroverts love them; introverts tolerate them at best.

In this interactive, participatory program you'll learn how to walk in with confidence, engage people in conversation, and leave knowing you have made a positive impression.

Key takeaways include:

- How to pick events that are worth your time and effort
- Learn the best time to arrive
- Discover ways to get into conversations (as well as exit with tact)
- Tips to remembering names
- What body language says and why it's important to know
- Strategies to connect with keynote speakers and other VIPs
- Ways to juggle a plate of appetizers and glass of wine
